

WMTD is relying heavily on you to encourage young people to volunteer to be interviewed

However we want to avoid interviewing just those whose opinions are gathered for everything and/or who are very easy to access.

Therefore when recruiting potential interviewees we would like you to try to include as wide a range of young people as possible.

For this research to be interesting and useful we really need to gather the views of:

- both male and female interviewees (ideally half and half)
- disabled young people
- young people who are either in or who have stayed in a YOI
- some young people who are not in training, employment or education
- some who have done well eg at university or in a good training or job
- young people from a variety of ethnic backgrounds including mixed race
- a variety of ages, 16- 25
- some who are still in care and some who recently left care
- young parents – both male and female

We hope this is helpful. Feel free to contact me if you have any queries.
